STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

LOWELL, MASSACHUSETTS

The President's Message

The Class of 1944 has made for itself an enviable place in the life and history of our college and a confused and troubled world will be the better for your part in it, if you will continue to make the same use of these fine qualities of heart and mind which have characterized your stay with us.

The fate of civilization rests in the hands of those who teach, and at no time in our history has the responsibility of the teacher been greater for the preservation of those ideals of civilization which we cherish.

May you know and experience the joys and blessings of success in the years to come.

JAMES DUGAN

BLANCHE A. CHENEY

Dean Emerita

To guide youth one must possess an inherent wisdom and understanding combined with a youthful outlook that is wise in experience. We have been fortunate in our college life to have had two women who have this gift and have given us the guidance we needed.

One of these women is you, Miss Cheney. We confess that the first thing we liked about you was your appearance, your silver hair, your vibrancy and enjoyment of life that was mirrored in your eyes, your laugh, and the way your handkerchief always matched your dress. As bewildered Freshmen suddenly forced to be grown up, you let us relax every once in awhile and be little girls again until we got our "sea legs" as you called it. We remember "sneakrets" and making a hope chest for teaching material. You were constantly trying to develop in us poise and confidence. As Sophomores and Juniors you treated us as the highly sophisticated young ladies we thought we were. Your every concern was for your girls in college, to make them happy and intelligent young women. It was you who first told us, "We have to rise above petty thinking. Think in broad, worldly terms. There is a new international brotherhood of man. The world has shrunk."

In our Senior year we missed you. You slipped away so quietly last year we could not show our appreciation for everything you have done. May we do so now? Thank you, Miss Cheney for your help, guidance and teaching.

Dedication

MARGUERITE A. GOURVILLE

Dean and Advisor

You are the other woman, Miss Gourville. We were greatly impressed on the very first day when the entire class was lined up in the gym and you called the roll. As you read each name you looked at each one long and searchingly, seeming to memorize our features. From that day on you knew us. You never made a mistake in calling us by name. We liked that for from the beginning you showed that you were interested in us as individuals. After that we watched your every move. We wanted you as our class advisor and considered ourselves fortunate when you accepted. We recognized then and appreciate more fully now your ability of getting things done efficiently, two stairs at a time. Your inexhaustive supply of ideas has never ceased to amaze us.

The class remembers such things as the day you refereed the Army-Navy Hockey game in a snowstorm. You had your collar up and the brim of your crew hat down. We recall the night of the "Hill-billy" Party, when you led the faculty in singing a thank-you song and also that senior get-together when you played the heroine of a well known song. These showed that with everything else you are a good sport.

We have not been easy to advise. You gave us this thought, "If you work hard enough you can do it." You taught us the meaning of cooperation.

We were proud when you were elected Dean. We realized now the whole school would benefit from your ideals, administrative ability, and good sportsmanship.

Our first impression of you turned into admiration. Then from admiration into something more lasting, sincere affection.

Our appreciation is so great Miss Gourville, that all we can say is thank you, thank you for everything.

We were awfully happy to have you come back this year —
You have entered into all college activities — Good luck for your remaining years.

The Class of 1944

We the Seniors are thankful:

We are thankful for the ideals and faith in God and Country that have been further instilled in us here.

We are thankful to you Mr. Dugan for your kind and sympathetic understanding.

We are thankful to you Miss Gourville for your advice and all your efforts to make our class the best class possible.

We are thankful to you our faculty for equipping us with skills for our profession.

We are thankful to you our training teachers for giving us the patterns from which to cut our professional life.

We are thankful to you, Irene, Kitty, Dodie and Mary, our class officers, for your every earnest endeavor in our behalf.

We are thankful for such things as: Days at Hampton, night of the Senior Prom, our Hill-Billy and Gay Nineties parties, the first and last lesson we taught at Practice School and Passe Partout.

We are thankful that we all have that inner urge to go forth to seek and find new horizons where there is still much to be done. We are confident that we will find a place for ourselves in this new world.

The Knoll Staff

Election to the YEARBOOK staff was what we wanted most in college and we decided that this would be the best YEARBOOK ever. We didn't foresee what was ahead of us. "Montage," "bleed to the edge," "half-tone," "glossies," and "dummy," were words that we never even heard of before.

What special features will distinguish it as the '44 YEARBOOK? "Shall we have this, shall we have that, can we afford it, will Mary Canney give us any money," were only a few of the questions we had to answer.

Finally the eventful day had come. The YEARBOOK had gone to press.

Then anxious little thoughts began tapping in our brain. Will the class think it worthy of them? Will the rest of the college treasure it? Will everyone be as proud of the YEARBOOK as we are?

Farewell

The Junior and Senior classes are always very close. We believe that our classes have been even closer than others. Most of our college life has been spent together, many fast friends have been made, loyalties have sprung up. Probably the most important reason is that we have shared many happy times together.

Another thing that has strengthened the bond between us is that when you reach the status of an upperclassman your training at college becomes specialized. All of us now are interested in becoming good teachers.

Your class has had its first experience in practice teaching. You probably feel as we do that it is the most challenging feature of your college life. During your senior year, which is brimful of activities, your class will be divided. Let us leave you this thought, although you may be divided physically, be united in your thought and activities.

All the seniors join hands and hearts in wishing you, the class of nineteen forty-five, success and happiness in your every undertaking.

We leave you not only our title but the lounge as well. Make good use of both of them.

See miss you Maryne

Tribute

We the Class of 1944 have come to a very profound, definite, scientific conclusion. Innate and acquired traits of classes are inherited by little sister classes.

Our little sisters entered college in September 1942. To find their worth we conducted a rather difficult experiment known as Initiation Week. The experiment was successful; our little sisters were good sports.

The second step was exposition. During their two years they have shown that they have a high standard of academic achievement combined with ability to have a good time. They have given their big sisters two very enjoyable parties. A roller skating party, theatre party, a weenie roast and scavenger hunt have served to make memories for themselves.

Now the comparison; we two classes are very much alike. We both have high standards and we both like good times.

Little sisters we leave with you our fond wish that you will seize everything our college has to offer and treasure it. May you all be successful in your chosen field.

*I wish you
 May your year

Advice

You are a unique class for none other has done what you have done. You made college history! Do you know how you did it? You are the first Freshman class in which there were some faces familiar to the rest of the college on the first day you entered. We met some of you on High School Day. Remember? Aren't you glad you chose this college? We are glad that you are here.

Your first year, although it has flown by quickly, has been eventful. Initiation now is only a rosy haze. Uncertainties have been cleared up. Biology has proven to be interesting and art has been a pleasure and your choir, the first Freshman choir in the history of the college, already shows promise of a fine musical organization. Your Valentine Formal, Class Day, Hampton, parties are bright spots in your memory. You will appreciate your college even more when you get a taste of teaching.

Work hard and keep up your good record. Play hard and enjoy life. We are able to assure you that you will be happy in the years ahead of you. We pray that during your college life the world will achieve peace and that you will be blessed by its benefits.

Winged. Your team

School and Society League

The war makes us realize that we as teachers must educate the youth of this country for a workable Democracy. Democracy has many interpretations. The one upon which we all agree is: To provide for the common good of the greatest number. There is no sounder way to appreciate Democracy than to participate in and carry out the creed it sets forth. We do this here at college daily through our School and Society League.

We have the trained leaders and followers we need. For we are privileged to elect the governing body of our school.

It is the work of the league in conjunction with our Dean, Miss Gourville, to plan and supervise student activities. This year the league has planned for us a reception tea for the new faculty member, Miss Elizabeth Neilson, the Senior Mother's Tea, Undergraduate Mother's Tea, and in the Spring an all college musical production.

The School and Society League is the nerve from which impulses are sent to the life of the whole school.

Athletic Association

The Athletic Association ranks top in importance in the minds and hearts of the entire college. Everyone is automatically a member of the "A.A." when she enters college.

The members of the Association are glad this year to have as their new advisor Miss Elizabeth Neilson. She has shown keen interest in furthering the activities of and gaining prestige for the "A.A." For this we thank her.

The student body has elected an executive board. This board consists of girls who have shown outstanding leadership qualities in the various sports. They administer the affairs connected with the Association.

The "A.A." also adds very much to our social life. They have conducted: The Army-Navy Hockey and Basketball games, Alumni Hockey and Basketball games, a sports night, and the annual formal banquet.

The Athletic Association is the core around which all our sports activities center.

Advisor	Miss Josephine Chute

The Art Club has proven that there is a great amount of beauty and joy in creating with your hands. You need not paint a great picture or carve a statue to be a true artist. For in creating simple things by knitting, crocheting and embroidering you can become a master craftsman in constructing a happy life.

The master hand that guides the creative fingers of this club is Miss Josephine Chute.

These artists are human for they like to eat, drink tea and be merry.

Art Club

"All passes, Art alone Enduring stays to us"

OFFICERS

President	Stacia Rusomani
Vice-President	Olive Cahoon
Secretary-Treasurer	Elsbeth Ohlson
Advisor	Mr. DeMerritte Hiscoe

In our path through L.T.C. each one of us has felt like an artist. Perhaps this was due to paint on our fingertips, the smudge of colored chalk on our noses, or the donning of our smocks. You can't help but feel it for art is in the very air. The true artists in the school however are the ones who have joined the Sketching Club.

This club is a select one. Only those students who have shown special talent and ability in Freshman Art are eligible to join it. The club provides for its members an interesting outlet for their inborn skill.

Mr. DeMerritte Hiscoe is both instructor and advisor of this group of artists.

Sketching Club

Dance Club

Lithe figures sheathed in black, the soft slide and thump of bare feet, the haunting beat of the tom-tom pulsing out the rhythm, the more familiar strains of the piano supplying the accompaniment, all are characteristics of the Modern Dance Group. The keynote is expression. Each girl brings music to life through movements filled with rhythm and grace.

Here the joy is unconfined. Individuals devise rhythmical patterns, the best of which are adopted by the group and organized into a theme. This theme combined with others forms a story in movement.

All club activities are under the direction of Miss Marguerite L. Gourville.

"On with the dance; let joy be unconfined"

Mental Hygiene Club

The science of Psychiatry is the fatal fascination that binds this club together. These girls are interested in human behavior. They want to know what causes people to react as they do in certain situations.

This year the club has made particular research into the definition of personality. Mr. Herman H. Brase has aided them in this by analyzing some of the members' personalities.

OFFICERS

President	Shirley Hey
Vice-President	Winifred Fountain
Secretary-Treasurer	Janet Wholey
Advisor	Miss A. Florence Kirby

These, the thespians of L.T.C., have striven to attain the well trod stage anon. Each one of us has craving to express himself in acting. The students of our college who have more of this urge than others have joined the Dramatic Club. Here they may give vent to their secret yearning.

The all important woman behind the scenes, the producer, director and prompter is Miss A. Florence Kirby.

As a result of valuable experience gained in this club, someday a member may realize his ambition and tread the well-trod stage anon and heap fame and glory on this our college.

Dramatic Club

"Whenever God doth let us see His treasures"

We perhaps shall not remember the names or the words of the songs that the college choir has sung. We shall remember however, a god's treasure they bestowed on us of beautiful, young, earnest voices raised in perfect harmony in song.

This blending of thoughts, spirit and music that has resulted in the college choir has been developed by the interest and cooperation of its members and by the infectious enthusiasm of its director, Miss Grace G. Pierce.

During the course of this year the choir has made many public appearances. Included in these were performances at the Lowell Rotary Club, Essex County Teachers' Convention, Lovell General Hospital at Fort Devens, the Superintendents' Conference at Bridgewater Teachers College and the Conference for High School Principals and Deans at Framingham Teachers College.

College Choir

The Band

Music is the very heart of L.T.C. Everyone respects and admires the students of this department. They are artists and perhaps music is innately closer to their hearts than to others. Nevertheless the music that our college has offered has developed in each and every one of us a finer taste and a greater appreciation of the beauty in life.

“Oh! It’s the best band in the land!” We at L.T.C. think so. It is also the most flexible band in the land. In what other can members play as many different instruments as they do in ours? In what other band is every member an able conductor? How many bands have Mr. Augustus Mazzocca as their instructor and director?

Long after it was heard no more”*
